JOURNEYS
THROUGH TIME

Your new home will be located on Devanahalli-Doddaballapura Road, in close proximity to Doddaballapura, which has all the modern conveniences you need and a history as old as time, with stories of gods, rulers, visionaries and revolutionaries all rolled into one at the heart of Bengaluru's future.

For our first project in North Bengaluru, we chose this location so that you can start something new, a journey where there is no looking back, only forward to a life with no compromises.

Where nature surrounds you, the future beckons you, divinity guides you and life embraces you.

Fresh air, food, water, stunning views and a better life welcome you home. Let's begin!

A black bull with long, curved horns stands in a rocky, arid landscape. In the background, a large anthill is visible, with many ants crawling on it. The ground is sandy and rocky, with some sparse vegetation. The overall scene is set in a natural, outdoor environment.

THE ORIGIN OF DODDABALLAPURA

There are many stories to the origin of Doddaballapura, from mythology to recorded history. The name itself could be from the Hoysala name of 'Ballala' or a folk tale about a 'balla' of milk delivered by a cow over an anthill.

Whatever the story, Doddaballapura is known to be older than the city of Bengaluru itself, with stories dating back at least a thousand years.

HOME TO HISTORY

From Sir M.Visvesvaraya's house to Devanahalli Fort, Annie Besant Park and more, this region has called itself home to many significant stories across Indian history.

GHATI SUBRAMANYA TEMPLE

Developed by Ghorpade rulers of Sandur 600 years ago; 30 mins from Lagos. Still in active use today, the temple houses the unique idol of Lord Subramanya & Lord Narasimha. Doddaballapura also hosts several temples in the vicinity with ancient heritage.

A detailed illustration of a textile shop. The room is filled with various colorful fabrics, including patterned shawls, scarves, and bolts of cloth. The fabrics are displayed on shelves, hanging from the ceiling, and on racks. The colors are rich and varied, including reds, oranges, blues, and purples. The shop has a rustic feel with wooden shelves and a high ceiling with exposed beams. The lighting is warm, highlighting the textures and patterns of the textiles.

HISTORIC TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Known as India's Manchester for its robust textile industry dating back 400+ years. Still a hub of manufacturing with the 48-acre Doddaballapura Integrated Textile Park. Home to Silk looms, traders and workers.

DODDABALLAPURA TODAY

Thanks to its relatively independent development from Bengaluru, Doddaballapura has always been a hub of activity. It's a fully developed city where you have access to all modern amenities, from fresh fruits & vegetables at the APMC Yard to schools, colleges, hospitals and ATMs in all directions. It's well connected by road, has the International Airport nearby and will feature some of the largest Investment Regions in Karnataka!

Being here offers unique advantages compared to nearby Devanahalli & IVC Road, namely better access to Doddaballapura, while also being close to the tech parks, business zones and leisure spots in the region.

EAT FRESH, EVERYDAY!

Marketing Committee (APMC)
Yard in Doddaballapura is one of the city's largest and supplies fruits, vegetables and flowers all
